

In an extraordinary time, he faced extraordinary choices, and maybe some would say this means we cannot judge him. But how can we really judge anyone except in the most extraordinary of circumstances? It's easy to be civilized and display a patina of orderliness in calm times, but your true character only emerges in darkness and under great pressure.

Extraordinary Time

Extraordinary Time:

An Extraordinary Time Marc Levinson, 2016-11-08 The decades after World War II were a golden age across much of the world. It was a time of economic miracles, an era when steady jobs were easy to find and families could see their living standards improving year after year. And then around 1973 the good times vanished. The world economy slumped badly, then settled into the slow, erratic growth that had been the norm before the war. The result was an era of anxiety, uncertainty, and political extremism that we are still grappling with today. In An Extraordinary Time, acclaimed economic historian Marc Levinson describes how the end of the postwar boom reverberated throughout the global economy, bringing energy shortages, financial crises, soaring unemployment, and a gnawing sense of insecurity. Politicians suddenly unable to deliver the prosperity of years past railed haplessly against currency speculators, oil sheikhs, and other forces they could not control. From Sweden to Southern California, citizens grew suspicious of their newly ineffective governments and rebelled against the high taxes needed to support social welfare programs enacted when coffers were flush. Almost everywhere, the pendulum swung to the right, bringing politicians like Margaret Thatcher and Ronald Reagan to power. But their promise that deregulation, privatization, lower tax rates, and smaller government would restore economic security and robust growth proved unfounded. Although the guiding hand of the state could no longer deliver the steady economic performance the public had come to expect, free market policies were equally unable to do so. The golden age would not come back again. A sweeping reappraisal of the last sixty years of world history, An Extraordinary Time forces us to come to terms with how little control we actually have over the economy.

Experience Design Abraham Burickson, 2023-11-06 An engaging introduction to the cutting edge discipline of experience design for students and practitioners in creative fields including architecture, product design, gaming, exhibition design, and performance. What does it mean to design experiences? Traditional design practices invite us to design things and to use those things to solve problems. But experience is not a problem; it is life. Experience designers engage with unpredictability and the unknown, partnering with their audiences to generate possibility and relationality. Experience designers create worlds, craft narratives that leave the page and enter people's lives, and structure transformation. Broadly interdisciplinary and deeply human, experience design is a practice that at once embraces new technologies and offers a balm for our disconnected lives. In this playful, accessible, and visually engaging book, Burickson lays out ten basic principles for this emerging practice. Experience Design: A Participatory Manifesto invites the reader to stop making things and instead to craft the minutes and hours of human life. Rigorous and philosophical, the book guides the reader through the processes of empathic research, constructing worlds not just for fantasy fiction but in schools, communities, homes, and mastering the tools necessary to work coherently across disciplines to create new experiences. Whether you are a maker of immersive theater, an architect, a graphic designer, a community organizer, or just someone hoping to give a better gift, this book offers a vision of creating that is both new and as old as civilization.

Rising from the Dead Patricia Nanoff, 2013-10-23 Bridging the gap between spirituality and the recovering community Rising from the Dead Stories of Women s Spiritual Journeys to Sobriety tells the stories of alcoholic women in long term sobriety whose faith based rehabilitation healed and transformed their lives Using the format adopted by Alcoholics Anonymous in telling their stories each woman tells how it was what happened and how it is now Their stories are first examined within the more secular models of treatment and then in relation to theological categories and models Illustrating the catastrophic nature of alcoholism as well as the hopeful path to recovery this book offers a practical and valuable guide for professionals working in the Christian community to assist women suffering from addiction Rising from the Dead describes the 12 step spiritual approach to treating addiction and offers strategies for strengthening and developing the spiritual lives of those afflicted with this burden This book examines the use of stories from a therapeutic and Christian perspective and suggests models for therapeutic listening and counseling It also covers narrative construction issues with shame and guilt threshold experiences God language and much more An indispensable book on healing through communities of faith Rising from the Dead Stories of Women s Spiritual Journeys to Sobriety is ideal for pastors pastoral counselors chaplains parish nurses and seminary faculty teaching in the area of addiction ministry The Australian Law Times ,1916 What is to be done?
