Dibble, Shannon J. P.

McPherron, Paul Goldberg, Dennis M. Sandgathe, 2017-10-24 This book provides comprehensive information on the materials excavated at Pech de l'Azé IV both by the original excavator François Bordes in the 1970s and more recently by the authors and their scientific team Applying a range of new excavation and analytical techniques it presents detailed material on the formation of the site its chronology and the nature of the hominin occupations Pech de l'Azé IV is part of a complex of Lower and Middle Paleolithic cave sites in the Dordogne Valley of southwestern France Although this region is well known for its rich concentration of Paleolithic sites since the mid 19th century and many of the sites have been repeatedly excavated no detailed studies have fully documented the stone tool technology and faunal remains or the changes in them over time The site was regularly occupied by groups of Neanderthals from approximately 100 000 to 40 000 years ago during which time global scale changes transformed the region from a relatively warm climate similar to today's to a very cold glacial one The site provides valuable insights into changes in Neanderthal behavior that reflect at least in part their adaptation to changes in the environment and the availability of important resources such as prey species Early European Agriculture British Academy. Major Research Project in the Early History of Agriculture, 1982-10-28 First printed in 1982 this is the third and final volume to be published as a result of the British Academy Major Research Project on the Early History of Agriculture carried out in the Department of Archaeology in Cambridge under the direction of the late Eric Higgs After his death in 1976 the Project was drawn to its conclusion by his associates and this book is effectively a summary of the results of the Project The first two volumes Papers in Economic Prehistory and Palaeoeconomy argued that the development of agriculture was a much more gradual and widespread phenomenon than had been thought previously This book now discusses the origins and early development of prehistoric agriculture within the framework of prehistoric subsistence economies in general Early human economies are viewed in their adaptation to three crucial resource zones the uplands the lowlands and the littorals
