Veil and Vow Aneeka Ayanna Henderson, 2020-01-29 In Veil and Vow Aneeka Ayanna Henderson places familiar often politicized questions about the crisis of African American marriage in conversation with a rich cultural archive that includes fiction by Terry McMillan and Sister Souljah music by Anita Baker and films such as The Best Man Seeking to move beyond simple assessments of marriage as good or bad for African Americans Henderson critically examines popular and influential late twentieth and early twenty first century texts alongside legislation such as the 1996 Defense of Marriage Act and the Welfare Reform Act which masked true sources of inequality with crisis laden myths about African American family formation Using an interdisciplinary approach to highlight the influence of law politics and culture on marriage representations and practices Henderson reveals how their kinship veils and unveils the fiction in political policy as well as the complicated political stakes of fictional and cultural texts Providing a new opportunity to grapple with old questions including who can be a citizen a wife and marriageable Veil and Vow makes clear just how deeply marriage still matters in African American culture

Color Monitors Martin Kevorkian, 2018-07-05. Color Monitors looks at a particular subset of imagined computer use, focusing on scenarios that demand from the person at the keyboard an intimate technical knowledge. My research has uncovered a peculiar pattern: race comes into sharp relief when computer use is depicted as difficult labor requiring special expertise. Time and again in such scenarios the helpful person of color is there to take the call to provide technical support to deal with the machines. In interpreting such images, Color Monitors analyzes the computer-fearing strain in American whiteness, an aspect of white identity that defines itself against information technology and the racial other imagined to love it and excel at it. Martin Kevorkian. Following up on Ralph Ellison's intimation that blacks serve as the machines inside the machine, Color Monitors examines the designation of black bodies as natural machines for the information age. Martin Kevorkian shows how African Americans are consistently depicted as highly skilled, intelligent, and technologically savvy as they work to solve complex computer problems in popular movies, corporate advertising, and contemporary fiction. But is this progress? Or do such seemingly positive depictions have more disturbing implications? Kevorkian provocatively asserts that whites' historical fear of a black planet has in the age of microprocessing converged with a new fear of computers and the possibility that digital imperatives will engulf human creativity. Analyzing escapist fantasies from Mission Impossible to Minority Report, Kevorkian argues that the placement of a black man in front of a computer screen doubly reassures audiences: he is nonthreatening, safely occupied, even imprisoned by the very machine he attempts to control, an occupation that simultaneously frees the action heroes from any electronic headaches. The study concludes with some alternatives to this scheme, looking to a network of recent authors with shared affinities for Ellison and Pynchon, willing to think inside the black box of technology. Connecting race, technology, and American empire, Color Monitors will attract attention from scholars working in emerging areas of race theory, African American studies, film studies, cultural studies, and technology and communication studies.

A Taste of Honey Darren Coleman, 2009-10-13. Honey Height learned early in life that her beauty and bedroom prowess are powerful, almost beyond her control. Forced by events that leave her to fend for herself as a teenager, she evolves into a money-hungry vixen. As an adult, using her physical attributes to lead a suspect lifestyle, Honey treats men like toys, good for a while but always disposable. That is until she meets handsome and charismatic Khalil Graves, an up-and-coming filmmaker who's desperately trying to escape the demons of his painful childhood. Already engaged, Khalil can't seem to shake his attraction to Honey. What he doesn't realize is that he's a pawn in Honey's plan for revenge. Honey's attempt at vengeance quickly unravels, complicated by her possible involvement in a murder and a devious plot to score a payday lucrative enough to free her from her unsavory lifestyle. In A Taste of Honey, Essence bestselling author Darren

Coleman delivers another sizzling drama filled tale that is sure to take his reputation for delivering page turners to another level Feenin' for That Dope Dick: An Erotic Short Story Shanice B,2018-09-15 QUICK NOTE This is a twelve thousand word erotic short story If you are looking for something sexy and quick to read then this will be the perfect read for you Heartbroken over her ex leaving her for another woman Kira seems to not be able to shake her bruised ego When Kira

You Got Me Feenin' Tina J,2019-10-04 Night Calhoun believed he had the perfect marriage and perfect family that is until his wife Slim finds out the truth When his dirty laundry comes to light it has his wife assuming she s not enough Remaining by his side like the good wife had her doing things to herself to gain her husbands attention Unbeknownst to her someone is watching her from a distance and it s not who you think No one has any idea who it could be yet the fear and paranoia is evident in Slim Will Night be able to save his family from this unknown person or will they suffer at the hands of a person they least expect Sky Calhoun has been with his girlfriend Salik for over fifteen years They were middle school sweethearts and have done everything together However Salik decides to live on the wild side thinking Sky will never find out When he does nothing she says or does will make him forgive her betrayal and deceit Another woman will capture his attention and like any ex who can t let go Salik goes out of her way to destroy any happiness coming towards him Jace and Kanae have been playing the cat and mouse game for over two years When they decide to take it further someone stands in between but not without an agenda Jace isn t worried about the repercussions of what may happen but Kanae has a lot to lose including everything she s worked hard for Not wanting to get Jace involved Kanae tries to handle things on her own Unfortunately chaos erupts and she finds out the hard way you can t do things on your own Feenin for That Thug Lovin 3

Mz. Biggs,2017-09-02 Imani and Pierce are back as they try to make their love one worth bragging about The only problem is the people around them don t want to see them happy and will stop at nothing to see them broken This is a true testament of the saying keep your enemies close but your friends and family closer After finally being reunited with her grandmother and with Soulja hiding out Imani thought she was finally going to get the life she deserved Though she was prepared to receive endless amounts of love her world will soon be turned upside down But why Pierce wants nothing more than to protect Imani and show her that there is a such thing as real love even though he didn t believe it until he met her However with so many enemies surrounding him preparing to take him out he ll have to do whatever he can to fight his way out of a mess that he never expected Will Pierce get the chance to shower Imani with all the things she needs and so much more Soulja may be in hiding but he and Quay were never far away As he sees his woman getting closer to another man in a way that she once was with him Soulja is prepared to take down any and everything moving to get Imani back Will Quay and Soulja survive their reckless actions at the hands of Soulja No matter how much they try Tariq and Trinity continue to struggle with making things right Trinity loves Tariq more than she has ever loved anyone in her entire life but the possibility of him fathering a child with someone else leads her to a crossroad Is Tariq that child s father Will Trinity give Tariq the chance to make things
