Good Death:

The Good Death Ann Neumann, 2017-02-07 Following the death of her father journalist and hospice volunteer Ann Neumann sets out to examine what it means to die well in the United States When Ann Neumann's father was diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's lymphoma she left her job and moved back to her hometown of Lancaster Pennsylvania She became his full-time caregiver cooking cleaning and administering medications When her father died she was undone by the experience by grief and the visceral quality of dying Neumann struggled to put her life back in order and found herself haunted by a question Was her father's death a good death The way we talk about dying and the way we actually die are two very different things she discovered and many of us are shielded from what death actually looks like To gain a better understanding Neumann became a hospice volunteer and set out to discover what a good death is today She attended conferences academic lectures and grief sessions in church basements She went to Montana to talk with the attorney who successfully argued for the legalization of aid in dying and to Scranton Pennsylvania to listen to pro-life groups who believe the removal of feeding tubes from some patients is tantamount to murder Above all she listened to the stories of those who were close to death What Neumann found is that death in contemporary America is much more complicated than we think Medical technologies and increased life expectancies have changed the very definition of medical death And although death is our common fate it is also a divisive issue that we all experience differently What constitutes a good death is unique to each of us depending on our age race economic status culture and beliefs What's more differing concepts of choice autonomy and consent make death a contested landscape governed by social medical legal and religious systems In these pages Neumann brings us intimate portraits of the nurses patients bishops bioethicists and activists who are shaping the way we die The Good Death presents a fearless examination of how we approach death and how those of us close to dying loved ones live in death's wake A

Good Death Sandra Martin, 2016-04-12 Having a good death is our final human right argues Sandra Martin in this updated and expanded version of her bestselling and award-winning social history of the right to die movement in Canada and around the world Winner of the BC National Award for Canadian Non-Fiction finalist for both the Donner Prize in Public Policy and the Dafoe Prize for History A Good Death has a new chapter on Canada's Medical Assistance in Dying Law The law allows mentally competent adults who are suffering grievously from incurable conditions to ask for a doctor's help in ending their lives Does the law go far enough No says Martin She delivers compelling stories about the patients the law ignores people with life-crushing diseases who are condemned to suffer because their natural deaths are not reasonably foreseeable With a clear analytical eye she exposes the law's shortcomings and outlines constitutional challenges including the presumed right of publicly funded faith-based institutions to deny suffering patients a legal medical service Martin argues that Canada can set an example for the world if it can strike a balance between compassion for the suffering and protection of the vulnerable between individual choice and social responsibility A Good Death asks the tough question none of us can avoid How do you want to die The answer will change your life and your death An excellent new book The timeliness is hard to overstate The Globe and Mail What truly distinguishes this book is the reportage on individuals and families who have fought to arrange for a better death These first hand experiences are the beating heart of a timely and powerful examination 2017 BC National Award for Canadian Non Fiction Jury Citation Community Care in Hong Kong Kar-wai TONG, Kenneth Nai-kuen FONG, 2014-10-16 Different global healthcare challenges bring threats to the healthcare system Like other developed countries Hong Kong is also focusing on how to manage the ageing population how to meet the rising public expectations and how to finance the ever increasing medical costs Strengthening community care services may provide a way out for settling these concerns Written by a team of renowned scholars and leading practitioners this book aims at evaluating how different parties can assist in building up local community capacity to achieve sustainable health and wellness The book is divided into three sections The first section discusses the different roles and practices of specialised community care that contribute to the relative success of the healthcare system in Hong Kong The second section makes use of various research practices to extrapolate future healthcare needs and practices in Hong Kong And the last one addresses the values of health care which underlie the healthcare culture structure and practice in Hong Kong over time Apart from pointing out the limitation of the current system this book will also discuss the future directions of the healthcare system in order to cope with the challenges in a changing society Published by City University of Hong Kong Press Death, Society, and Human Experience Robert Kastenbaum, Christopher M. Moreman, 2024-03-28 The 13th edition of Death Society and Human Experience provides a panoramic overview of the ways that we are touched by death and dying both as individuals and as members of society A landmark text in the field the authors draw on contributions from the social and behavioral sciences as well as the humanities including perspectives offered through history philosophy religion literature and the arts to provide thorough coverage and understanding of topics associated with the end of life and death and dying By approaching the subject from multiple angles the authors explain the various ways that individual cultural and societal attitudes influence both how and when we die and how we live and deal with the knowledge of death and loss Originally written by Robert Kastenbaum a renowned scholar who developed one of the world's first death education courses Christopher M Moreman who has worked in the field of death studies for two decades has updated this edition In addition to infusing his close areas of focus both in afterlife beliefs and experiences and how these might affect how people live their lives he's weaved in new coverage of current affairs including The impact of COVID 19 on experiences of death bereavement mourning and more Expanded legalization of physician assisted dying in the United States and several countries Changes in bereavement rituals and traditions stemming from technology use and social media With additional content and classroom extensions available online Death Society and Human Experience remains a thoughtful exploratory and impressively comprehensive overview for undergraduate and graduate courses in death dying and bereavement The Good Death Marilyn Webb, 2011-07-27 The Good Death is the first full scale examination of one of today's most complex issues the profound change in the way Americans think about and confront death Drawing on more than six years of firsthand research and reporting noted journalist Marilyn Webb builds her account around intimate portraits of the dying themselves She explains why some deaths become shockingly difficult and needlessly painful and how the struggles over end of life decisions can pit patient and family against hospitals doctors insurance companies religious groups and the law But there is good news as well Webb describes many extraordinary programs and individuals who are changing the face of dying An abundant source of comfort and hope The Good Death shows how the essential elements of humane even uplifted death are available to all of us if we know what is possible where to go for help and how to prepare

Applying the Roper-Logan-Tierney Model in Practice Jane Jenkins, BA MSc SRN RNT, Jackie Solomon, MA, PGDip, SRN, Sue Whittam, Karen Holland, 2008-06-03 This title is directed primarily towards health care professionals outside of the United States Applying the RLT Model in Practice has been written to enable students and their teachers in both Higher Education and clinical practice to explore the different dimensions of the model through a variety of case studies and exercises The case studies can be viewed as triggers for student problem solving skills in using the Model Many of the exercises are aimed at enabling readers to find evidence to support nursing activities The authors have incorporated an international perspective throughout the text Based on the most popular model used in general nursing care throughout the world Explicitly demonstrates how the RLT model can be used to assess plan deliver and evaluate individualised nursing care Applies the RLT model in the context of today s health services and links it to clinical governance and the multi disciplinary context of care Uses a problem solving approach with extensive use of exercises and case studies Attractive two colour design using boxes tables and summaries Fully updated throughout in line with changes in practice developments in the evidence base changes in the NHS e g modern matrons Modernisation Agency etc More material on how to apply the model in an inter disciplinary context Updated infection control section More on discharge planning More material relating to primary care

A Good Death T. Patrick Hill, David Shirley, 1992-08-20 Here is a balanced and complete guide to planning for a peaceful death in the face of medical technology It is full of sound information and thoughtfully explained options including what to expect in intensive care units chronic hospitals nursing homes and hospices plus how to understand the laws regarding terminal care and Living Wills

At Peace Samuel Harrington, 2018-02-06 The authoritative informative and reassuring guide on end of life care for our aging population Most people say they would like to die quietly at home But overly aggressive medical advice coupled with an unrealistic sense of invincibility or overconfidence in our health care system results in the majority of elderly patients misguidedly dying in institutions Many undergo painful procedures instead of having the better and more peaceful death they deserve AT PEACE outlines specific active and passive steps that older patients and their health care proxies can take to ensure loved ones live their last days comfortably at home and or in hospice when further aggressive care is inappropriate Through Dr Samuel Harrington s own experience with the aging and deaths of his parents and of working with patients he describes the terminal patterns of the six most common chronic diseases how to recognize a terminal diagnosis even when the doctor is not clear about it how to have the hard conversation about end of life wishes how to minimize painful treatments when to seek hospice care and how to deal with dementia and other special issues Informed by more than thirty years of clinical practice Dr Harrington came to understand that the American health care system wasn t designed to treat the aging population with care and compassion His work as a hospice trustee and later as a hospital trustee drove his passion for helping patients make appropriate end of life decisions

Health Psychology Antonia C. Lyons, Kerry Chamberlain, 2006-02-16 This textbook aims to provide students with a stimulating alternative to the textbooks currently available by placing the discipline within the context of the social world and encouraging them to question some of the assumptions and values underlying much current research A comprehensive survey of the discipline is provided framed within a lifespan approach and emphasising social cultural factors such as gender ethnicity and social economic status All

A Good Death Margaret Rice, 2019-05-06 The guide to facilitate much needed conversation and provide resources for grief management and palliative care When her own mother died Margaret Rice realised how completely unprepared she and her family had been for the experience of companioning a loved one who is dying So she decided to go in search of the information she couldn't find when she most needed it and write the book herself a novice's guide to death We live in a period of intense death denial But what if we were to smash that taboo and ask questions we want answered like how do we know when someone is close to dying and how do we best care for them What actually happens to our body when we die How do we work with medical experts How do we deal with the non medical issues that will come up such as wills finances and even social media passwords Is morphine used to nudge death along or is this just a myth Where do questions about euthanasia fit in with personal lived experience Margaret Rice lifts the lid on the taboos that surround death sharing practical information and compassionate advice from multiple sources to break down boundaries and offer better choices of care to suit individual needs This is a book to help the dying and their carers feel less isolated and help us all face death better

A Good Death: a Practical Guide to Maintaining Control of Your End-Of-Life Journey C. Susan Cass RN MS FNP, 2015-05-15 Americans are enjoying the longest life expectancy in United States history but what does this mean for the over seventy million aging baby boomers It is expected the majority of the aging population will have two or more chronic health illnesses that will require frequent interactions with the healthcare system and will ultimately contribute to the decline in health realized over the years of one's life How do we prepare for when the natural aging process coupled with the effects of multiple chronic health illnesses takes its final toll and we are faced with our own mortality How do we begin to make end of life decisions either for ourselves or for someone we love In today's complex healthcare environment with advanced technology and treatment options A Good Death A Practical Guide to Maintaining Control of your End of Life Journey is written to make the eventuality of death and dying a topic of family conversation It is written to help the reader consider what type of care he or she would want at the end of life as well as encourage the reader to take the necessary steps to ensuring he receives that care It is an invaluable tool in breaking the barrier of silence that surrounds death and dying

EBOOK: A Good Death: On the Value of Death and Dying Lars Sandman, 2004-09-16 Is there such a thing as a good death Should we be able to choose how we wish to die What are the ethical considerations that surround a good death The notion of a good death plays an important role in modern palliative care and remains a topic for lively debate Using philosophical methods and theories this book provides a critical analysis of Western notions surrounding the dying process in the palliative care context Sandman highlights how our changing ideas about the value of life inevitably shape the concept of a good death He explores the varying perspectives on the good death that come from friends family physicians spiritual carers and others close to the dying person Setting out a number of arguments for and against existing thinking about a good death this book links to the practice of palliative care in several key areas including An exploration of the universal features of dying The process of facing death Preparation for death The environment of dying and death The author concludes that it is difficult to find convincing reasons for any one way to die a good death and argues for a pluralist approach A Good Death is essential reading for students and professionals with an interest in palliative care and end of life issues
