What you need to know

All workers have a right to work in places where risks to their health and safety are properly controlled. Health and safety is about stopping you getting hurt at work or ill through work. Your employer is responsible for health and safety, but you must help.

What employers must do for you

- 1 Think what could harm you in your job and the job others doing it. This is part of risk assessment.
- 2 In a way that you understand, explain how risks will be controlled and tell you who is responsible for this.
- 3 Consult and work with you and your health and safety representatives in preventing serious harm from the workplace.
- 4 Tell of changes that pose the health and safety risks you would face in your job.
- 5 Tell of changes that do not pose with you equipment and protective clothing you need, and ensure it is properly looked after.

What you must do

- 6 Provide safety, working facilities and drinking water.
- 7 Provide adequate first aid facilities.
- 8 Report major injuries and fatalities at work to the Health and Safety Commission on 0800 300 9000. Report other injuries, diseases and dangerous occurrences on www.hse.gov.uk.
- 9 Have insurance that covers you in case you get hurt at work or ill through work. Employ a health and safety representative if the current insurance certificate reflects you are likely to do it.
- 10 Work with any other employees or contractors sharing the workplace or premises, whichever needs to agree matters, so that everyone's health and safety is protected.

If there's a problem

- 1 If you are worried about health and safety in your workplace, talk to your employer, supervisor or health and safety representative.
- 2 You can also look to our website for general information about health and safety at work.
- 3 If, after talking with your employer, you are still worried, contact the Health and Safety Executive for health and safety and the Employment Medical Advisers Service on HSE's website www.hse.gov.uk.
