Women in Hollywood's Dream Factory Karen McNally, 2026-03-17 Analyzing and challenging the film industry's infamous treatment of women The MeToo revelations put a twenty-first century stamp on the age-old story of women's mistreatment in Hollywood Karen McNally edits a collection focused on examining and revising film history in the aftermath of the women's stories past and present that have come to light The collection begins with essays on the interplay between reality and imagination in narratives and representations of women's experiences of unequal treatment In Part 2 contributors discuss how the gendered attitudes of the media's stories enable inequality in Hollywood and look at the forces that arise whenever women resist these media assaults The next section addresses the structures that built the inequalities and mistreatment while Part 4 revisits established narratives to challenge, renew, and expand upon our understanding of film history through women's stories Essays in the final section address the combination of inequality and resistance that defines women's experiences in Hollywood Piercing and Astute: Women in Hollywood's Dream Factory confronts our perception of Hollywood as a mythological land of dreams Contributors Alicia Byrnes Anna M Dempsey Harriet Fletcher Amanda Konkle Tamar Jeffers McDonald Kerry McElroy Adrienne L McLean Karen McNally Donna Peberdy Melanie Piper Victoria K Pistivsek Sarah Polley Ina C Seethaler Gabrielle Stecher and Jennifer Voss

Read,1976 The "nabes" John Sebert,2001 The nabes or neighborhood movie theatres were a phenomena which peaked in the 1940s Every neighborhood in Toronto and in almost every major city throughout North America had a nabe which became the center for entertainment enjoyment cinema People organized their entertainment lives to attend their nabe on a weekly basis to watch movies to see the newsreel to meet friends even to collect the gifts which were common as a premium give away The nabes were an important part of North American culture Alas these movie houses fell into decline during the 1970s and are now virtually extinct See for yourself in a large section of interesting then and now photo spreads John Sebert the renowned photographer has now researched these landmark sites in Toronto s archives He has tracked down original photographs of the nabes in their heyday and taken photos of the way they are today Numerous well known personalities have contributed texts which document their own love affairs with their local nabes This book is an important visual record of a city its transformation its evolution and its cultural record The Hollywood Reporter ,2007 Motion Picture Herald ,1927 Film History ,2006 The Spectator ,1930 The Oxford Handbook of Film and Media Studies Robert Kolker,2008-09-11 This handbook examines film and new media in the light of their convergence It draws on leading scholars in the field to discuss traditional areas of history and theory of film and digital media Its focus however is on the cycle of technologically driven arts Film was born of a number of experiments in reproducing motion all of which culminated in the nineteenth century projection of short films The creation of digital media resulted from experiments in alternative forms of representation in the early 1960s John Whitney began creating avant garde films from digital graphics around 1960 and some of his ideas and methods were incorporated by Stanley Kubrick in 2001 A Space Odyssey By the early 1990s commercial filmmakers began to employ digital effects in their work By the late nineties digital arts had come fully into their own both in the form of stand alone or interactive artworks and films created with and for the computer At the same time digital effects had completely overtaken optical printing and matte painting in film From special effects to creating realistic backgrounds and crowds the digital is infiltrating all aspects of filmmaking The infiltration is about to become a takeover as celluloid is replaced by high definition digital recording and projection processes Many aspects of film will change as this latest convergence takes place Already cultural response to film has changed as viewers begin to teach themselves about film through supplementary material on DVDs and to make their own films on home computers But this handbook is not a technical history or manual Quite the contrary it is a scholarly work discussing the aesthetics economics and cultural results of these changes and convergences The book balances traditional scholarship and analysis with essays addressing technological change and the concurrent changes in cultural responses to these changes responses already acknowledged by the profession The Film Weekly ,1944
