Full Moon Stories:

Tall Tales about the Mind and Brain Sergio Della Sala, 2007-01-11 Does listening to Mozart make us more intelligent Is there such a thing as a gay gene Does the size of the brain matter Does the moon influence our behaviour Can we communicate with the dead Can graphology tell us anything about a person's character Is the human brain clonable What role do dreams have in cognition Can mind conquer matter and diseases Are out of body experiences possible Can we trust our intuitions To some the answer to all these questions might well be a resounding no but to many people these represent serious beliefs about the mind and brain beliefs that drive their everyday behaviour beliefs that cost them huge amounts of money Whole industries have developed founded on these dubious claims about the mind and brain Even major corporations have dabbled with assessment methods such as those advocated by graphology accepting and rejecting candidates on the basis of their handwriting Expectant parents buy books and tapes by the dozen showing them how to improve the intelligence of their child by playing them classical music People subscribe to expensive therapies founded on beliefs rather than science or risk their health buying books that tell them how they can conquer illness through positive thinking perhaps at the expense of more scientifically proven treatments Tall Tales about the Mind and Brain presents a sweeping survey of common myths about the mind and brain In a lighthearted and accessible style it exposes the truth behind these beliefs how they are perpetuated why people believe them and why they might even exist in the first place

Heavenly Errors Neil F. Comins, 2001-06-27 One of the great paradoxes of modern times is that the more scientists understand the natural world the more we discover that our everyday beliefs about it are wrong Astronomy in particular is one of the most misunderstood scientific disciplines With the participation of thousands of undergraduate students Neil F Comins has identified and classified by origin and topic over 1 700 commonly held misconceptions Heavenly Errors provides access to all of them and explores many including Black holes suck in everything around them The Sun shines by burning gas Comets have tails trailing behind them The Moon alone causes tides Mercury the closest planet to the Sun is the hottest planet In the course of correcting these errors he explains that some occur through the prevalence of pseudosciences such as astrology and UFOlogy and some enter the public conscience through the bad astronomy of Star Trek Star Wars and other science fiction movies Perhaps most important Professor Comins presents the reader with the methods for identifying and replacing incorrect ideas tools with which to probe erroneous notions so that we can begin to question for ourselves and to think more like scientists
