The garden club award

Four of members of the Westwood Garden Club have won the $2000 award which is bestowed each year for the work they have done and completed on 25 acres within the Indiana State University Extension campus.

Their objective was to preserve and make more available to the general public a state of natural beauty. They utilized the help of experts, including the State Game Warden, to establish the East Wing wooded learning area and to insure it will be maintained as well as its many uses.

Friendships are to be met, the great beauty of nature a big help over the learning area.

All of us see the 75th birthday of the Westwood Club, not only for the physical improvement they have made to the campus, but for the encouragement their efforts have to every organization which is endeavoring to bring about a better world.
