Scientific Inquiry Cycle: Review

Science helps communities solve problems by applying knowledge and creating things that "solve" with a local focus such as water quality or waste management using science to make or improve solutions can have a positive impact. Understanding the problem fully, including its causes and effects, is the first step in finding an effective solution.

Designing solutions requires considering various conditions, such as budget, time, and safety concerns. Community members have a part of a solution might face challenges, however, and it is important to weigh these trade-offs carefully. For example, creating resources for a water filter may affect its cost and ease of use, which influenced the effectiveness of the solution.

After identifying a solution, determining how it works, what conditions affected it, and any compromises that have already been or should involve on the way. Communication, using design models, and reflecting on the results of the solution are important steps. The process of testing, sharing, and evaluating locally encourages responsible decision-making and helps communities thrive.

6A. Mark the best answer for each question.

1. What is the first important step when working on a local problem?
- Thinking of a solution immediately
 - Using the most expensive materials
 - Ignoring safety concerns
 - Understanding the problem fully
2. What does determining trade-offs in a solution help with?
- Ignoring the conditions of the solution
 - Establishing a solution that is safe and viable
 - Showing how to avoid trade-offs
 - Determining that the solution has no costs
3. Which is an example of a trade-off?
- Finding a solution with no costs
 - Using expensive materials
 - Not taking safety into account
 - Using untested materials
4. Why is communication important in a solution?
- To avoid not being in agreement
 - To make ideas shared
 - To finish the problem by comparing
 - To avoid discussing trade-offs

6B. Mark if the statement is True (T) or False (F).

1. A solution made after one failed attempt is always better than the first attempt.

Answer for each question.

1. How does identifying a solution help in the scientific process?

2. Why must trade-offs be considered in designing a solution?

3. What might happen when creating a water filter?

4. How might science solutions be implemented?

5. Why are trade-offs essential in scientific understanding?
