Abstract

An intuitive and natural way to quantify memory effects through measures on a probe quantum system is given from the aspect of sensitivity of environmental state. After several measures on the probe system, the degree of memory effects is given by the maximum distinguishability of output states of probe system corresponding to the variation of past evolution time. Quantum Fisher information on the past evolution duration which reflects the sensitivity of environmental state with respect to the system–environment evolution duration becomes the characteristic parameter of memory degree. The estimation process is applied on both classical and quantum environments, and the memory degree from the aspect of sensitivity of environmental state reflects the memory speed of environment.

Keywords Memory degree · Environmental sensitivity · Memory speed

1 Introduction

Either classical or quantum, a system evolves with its environment. According to the environmental memory of the past evolution, the evolution of the system is divided into two kinds: Markovian and non-Markovian [1]. In reality, the evolution of the system is treated as Markovian when the environmental fluctuations that carry information about the past evolution are in a relative short-time scale. However, Markovian description is only approximation to most of realistic processes, which are indeed non-Markovian. As a result, quantifying memory effects as well as testing the degree of non-Markovianity becomes an important and challengeable issue.

In the past years, many attempts have been made to define the Markovianity as well as measure the non-Markovianity, such as measures based on monotonicity of

Environmental Memory:

Handbook of Pre-Modern Nordic Memory Studies Jürg Glauser, Pernille Hermann, Stephen A. Mitchell, 2018-11-19 In recent years the field of Memory Studies has emerged as a key approach in the Humanities and Social Sciences and has increasingly shown its ability to open new windows on Nordic Studies as well. The entries in this book document the work to date of this approach on the pre modern Nordic world mainly the Viking Age and the Middle Ages but including as well both earlier and later periods. Given that Memory Studies is an ever expanding critical strategy the approximately eighty contributors in this volume also discuss the potential for future research in this area. Topics covered range from texts to performance to visual and other aspects of material culture all approached from within an interdisciplinary framework. International specialists coming from such relevant fields as archaeology mythology history of religion folklore history law art literature philology language and mediality offer assessments on the relevance of Memory Studies to their disciplines and show it at work in case studies. Finally this handbook demonstrates the various levels of culture where memory had a critical impact in the pre modern North and how deeply embedded the role of memory is in the material itself. The Essential Handbook of Memory Disorders for Clinicians Alan D. Baddeley, Michael Kopelman, Barbara A. Wilson, 2004-07-29 This concise version of the Handbook of Memory Disorders is a selection of chapters from the original volume that have been chosen with the busy practitioner in mind. This expansive volume spans time and space to illustrate how through food people have engaged with the past the future and their alternative presents. Beth M Forrest and Greg de St Maurice have brought together first class contributions from both established and up and coming scholars to consider how imagination and memory intertwine and sometimes diverge. Chapters draw on cases around the world including Iran Italy Japan Kenya and the US and include topics such as national identity food insecurity and the phenomenon of knowledge. Contributions represent a range of disciplines including anthropology history philosophy psychology and sociology. This volume is a veritable feast for the contemporary food studies scholar. The Organization of Environmental Memory Amanda Anne Merrill, 1978 The Environmental Memory Malcolm Quantrill, 1987 Biological Memory Eugenio Rignano, 1926.
