Executioner Pierrepoint:

Executioner, Pierrepoint Albert Pierrepoint, 1974      Pierrepoint Steve Fielding, 2008-07-07 For nearly 55 generations of the Pierrepoint family served as fearsome hangmen in England. The dynasty began in 1901 with Henry Pierrepoint, who was followed into the gruesome profession by his brother Thomas and in time his eldest son Albert. Between them they carried out an amazing 900 executions. This book recounts the lives and tales of the Pierrepoint family, their reasons for taking up the profession and the inside details of the execution cases and the deeds themselves. Insight is shed on the feuds and intense rivalry between fellow hangmen as well as the notorious cases that kept the family firmly in the spotlight. With extracts from diaries and comments on the family's representation in the media, this book provides a fascinating look at a profession that is long gone but certainly not forgotten.      Modern Literature and the Death Penalty, 1890-1950 Katherine Ebury, 2021-02-10 This book examines how the cultural and ethical power of literature allowed writers and readers to reflect on the practice of capital punishment in the UK, Ireland, and the US between 1890 and 1950. It explores how connections between high and popular culture seem particularly inextricable where the death penalty is at stake, analysing a range of forms including major works of canonical literature, detective fiction, plays, polemics, criminological and psychoanalytic tracts, and letters and memoirs. The book addresses conceptual understandings of the modern death penalty, including themes such as confession, the gothic, life writing, and the human-animal binary. It also discusses the role of conflict in shaping the representation of capital punishment, including chapters on the Easter Rising, on World War I, on colonial and quasi-colonial conflict, and on World War II. Ebury's overall approach aims to improve our understanding of the centrality of the death penalty and the role it played in major twentieth-century literary movements and historical events.      Execution Culture in Nineteenth Century Britain Patrick Low, Helen Rutherford, Clare Sandford-Couch, 2020-11-29 This edited collection offers multi-disciplinary reflections and analysis on a variety of themes centred on nineteenth-century executions in the UK, many specifically related to the fundamental change in capital punishment culture as the execution moved from the public arena to behind the prison wall. By examining a period of dramatic change in punishment practice, this collection of essays provides a fresh historical perspective on nineteenth-century execution culture, with a focus on Scotland, Wales, and the regions of England. From Public Spectacle to Hidden Ritual has two parts. Part 1 addresses the criminal body and the witnessing of executions in the nineteenth century, including studies of the execution crowd and executioners' memoirs, as well as reflections on the experience of narratives around capital punishment in museums in the present day. Part 2 explores the treatment of the execution experience in the print media from the nineteenth and into the twentieth century. The collection draws together contributions from the fields of Heritage and Museum Studies, History, Law, Legal History, and Literary Studies to shed new light on execution culture in nineteenth-century Britain. This volume will be of interest to students and academics in the fields of criminology, heritage, and museum studies, history, law, legal history, medical
