Domains and Major Transitions of Social Evolution Jacobus J. Boomsma, 2023-05-24 Evolutionary change is usually incremental and continuous but some increases in organizational complexity have been radical and divisive Evolutionary biologists who refer to such events as major transitions have not always appreciated that these advances were novel forms of pairwise commitment that subjugated previously independent agents Inclusive fitness theory convincingly explains cooperation and conflict in societies of animals and free living cells but to deserve its eminent status it should also capture how major transitions originated from prokaryote cells to eukaryote cells via differentiated multicellularity to colonies with specialized queen and worker castes As yet no attempt has been made to apply inclusive fitness principles to the origins of these events Domains and Major Transitions of Social Evolution develops the idea that major evolutionary transitions involved new levels of informational closure that moved beyond looser partnerships Early neo Darwinians understood this principle but later social gradient thinking obscured the discontinuity of life's fundamental organizational transitions The author argues that the major transitions required maximal kinship in simple ancestors not conflict reduction in already elaborate societies Reviewing more than a century of literature he makes testable predictions proposing that open societies and closed organisms require very different inclusive fitness explanations It appears that only human ancestors lived in societies that were already complex before our major cultural transition occurred We should therefore not impose the trajectory of our own social history on the rest of nature This thought provoking text is suitable for graduate level students taking courses in evolutionary biology behavioural ecology organismal developmental biology and evolutionary genetics as well as professional researchers in these fields It will also appeal to a broader interdisciplinary audience including the social sciences and humanities

The Structure of Evolutionary Theory Stephen Jay Gould, 2002-03-21 The world s most revered and eloquent interpreter of evolutionary ideas offers here a work of explanatory force unprecedented in our time a landmark publication both for its historical sweep and for its scientific vision With characteristic attention to detail Stephen Jay Gould first describes the content and discusses the history and origins of the three core commitments of classical Darwinism that natural selection works on organisms not genes or species that it is almost exclusively the mechanism of adaptive evolutionary change and that these changes are incremental not drastic Next he examines the three critiques that currently challenge this classic Darwinian edifice that selection operates on multiple levels from the gene to the group that evolution proceeds by a variety of mechanisms not just natural selection and that causes operating at broader scales including catastrophes have figured prominently in the course of evolution Then in a stunning tour de force that will likely stimulate discussion and debate for decades Gould proposes his own system for integrating these classical commitments and contemporary critiques into a new structure of evolutionary thought In 2001 the Library of Congress named Stephen Jay Gould one of America s eighty three Living Legends people who embody the quintessentially American ideal of individual creativity conviction dedication and exuberance Each of these qualities finds full expression in this peerless work the likes of which the scientific world has not seen and may not see again for well over a century

Looking for a Few Good Males Erika L. Milam, 2010-01-29 Approaching the topic from both biological and animal studies perspectives Milam not only presents a broad history of sexual selection from Darwin to sociobiology but also analyzes the animal human continuum from the perspectives of sex evolution
