JOHN. GRAHAM GILLAM

Gallipoli Diary:

Gallipoli Diary Ian Hamilton, 1920 Gallipoli Diary, Volume I Sir Ian Hamilton, 2016-09-18 Sir Ian Standish Monteith Hamilton 1853 1947 was Commander in Chief of the Mediterranean Expeditionary Force in the unsuccessful campaign against Turkey at Gallipoli The failure of this campaign considered risky and inadvisable by many even before it began including Admiral Fisher who strenuously objected to the dilution of the British Grand Fleet and who consequently resigned in protest led to the end of numerous careers including Hamilton's and temporarily Churchill who instigated the plan

Gallipoli Diary John Graham Gillam, 1918 Gallipoli Diaries Jonathan King, 2014-09-29 Gallipoli for the average Australian is the most famous battle that our volunteer soldiers ever fought because it was our first entry as a nation into the war and our people were keen to prove themselves It would be however a long time before the families back home and the nation as a whole heard of the terrible conditions on the peninsula and the waste of life that took place there Although Gallipoli was a crushing defeat it was and still is celebrated as a victory In this updated commemorative edition published 100 years after the 25 April 1915 landing the Gallipoli story is told day by day using the words of the diggers drivers soldiers and war correspondents at the front line War historian Jonathan King has gathered together an unequalled series of extracts from letters and diaries written by hundreds of Anzacs at Gallipoli accounting for every one of the 240 days of the eight month campaign and even identifying the actual days of the week Reading the men's own words including misspellings and mistakes we share in the soldiers' experiences These Australians of exceptional calibre and good cheer each wrote for different reasons although many made light of their hardships It is all here the fear the frustration and the boredom as they scrounged for bully beef went mad from the flies the lice and the stench of the unburied dead swapped cigarettes with enemy Turks dodged shrapnel while swimming at the beach celebrated birthdays sheltered from rain and shivered in snow and waited for action while praying for deliverance Although generals historians and war scholars have had their stories told many times it is only now when we read the private words of the men at the front line that we can glimpse what Gallipoli was really like PRAISE FOR JONATHAN KING In Jonathan King's Gallipoli Diaries we share the experiences of the diggers from day one It is a story that is spoken in the sometimes halting words of the soldiers and therein lies its power There is much here to enlarge our understanding of the disastrous Gallipoli campaign not least the appalling conditions in the trenches the daily grind of water carrying poor food flies and death Books Publishing A comprehensive history of the whole of the Gallipoli campaign Some notable Australian writers are among the many letter writers and diarists and their writing skills stand out King starts the book with some thoughts about why Australia as a nation celebrates what was after all a crushing defeat The Cooma Monaro Express

Gallipoli Diary Ian Hamilton, 2025-03-28 Gallipoli Diary Volume 2 offers a vital firsthand account of one of the most controversial campaigns of World War I Written by Ian Hamilton a key figure in the Gallipoli operation this war diary provides unparalleled insight into the Turkish campaign and the wider conflict A valuable resource for those interested in military history this volume delves into the day to day realities of the Gallipoli Peninsula campaign Hamilton's observations and reflections offer a unique perspective on the strategic decisions challenges and human cost of the war Explore the history of the Gallipoli Peninsula through the eyes of a leader capturing the intensity and complexity of this pivotal moment in world history This enduring historical document remains essential reading for anyone seeking to understand the Gallipoli campaign and its place in the larger narrative of World War I This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant

The Gallipoli Diary Volume 2 Ian Hamilton, 2019-09-15 Excerpt 11th July 1915 Worked in my office from early morning till 12 45 The whole scheme for tomorrow's attack is cut and dried according to our cloth time tables fixed and every round counted Freddy Stopford and his Staff turned up from Mudros Stopford in very good form The first thing he did was to deliver himself of a personal message from Lord K He Stopford wrote it down in the ante room the moment he left the presence and I may take it as being as good as verbatim Here it is Lord Kitchener told me to tell you he had no wish to interfere with the man on the spot but from closely watching our actions here as well as those of General French in Flanders he is certain that the only way to make a real success of an attack is by surprise Also that when the surprise ceases to be operative in so far that the advance is checked and the enemy begin to collect from all sides to oppose the attackers then perseverance Pg 2 becomes merely a useless waste of life In every attack there seems to be a moment when success is in the assailant's grasp Both the French and ourselves at Arras and Neuve Chapelle lost the opportunity Well said K has made Stopford bring me in his pocket the very text for what I wanted to say to him Only my grumbling thoughts find expression by my pen but I have plenty of others and my heart has its warm corner for K whenever he cares to come in

Gallipoli Diary ,1920 Gallipoli Diary (Classic Reprint) John Graham Gillam,2015-08-05 Excerpt from Gallipoli Diary In the kind and courteous letter which you will read on p 15 General Sir Aylmer Hunter Weston says that it is not possible for him to write a Preface to this book That is my own and the readers great loss for General HunterWeston as is well known commanded the 20th Division at the landing on the Gallipoli Peninsula on April 25 1915 and during those early months of desperate fighting until to the universal regret of all who served under him he became one of the victims of the sickness that began to ravage our ranks and as one of the chief players of the great game that was there enacted his comments would have been of supreme interest and would have added immeasurably to such small value as there may be in this Diary of one of the pawns in that same game But since the player cannot the pawn may perhaps be allowed to say a few words by way of comment on and explanation of the following pages Towards the completion of the mobilization of the 29th Division in the Leamington area in early 1915 I heard secretly that the Division was bound for the Dardanelles at an early date instead of for France as we had at first expected By this I knew that in all probability the Division was destined to play a most romantic part in the Great War About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
