Financial Regulation:

The future of EU financial regulation and supervision Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: European Union Committee, 2009-06-17 The European Union Committee undertook this inquiry as the implications of the financial crisis became clear Supervisors in the UK in the EU and globally failed to identify the impending meltdown and failed to take preventative action Reform of regulation and supervision of the financial system has become an important political topic In response to the crisis the European Commission has so far published four regulatory proposals on Capital Requirements Deposit Guarantee Schemes Credit Rating Agencies and Alternative Investment Funds The first two of these have been agreed and are largely sensible responses to the crisis The proposals to regulate alternative investment funds and credit rating agencies are more controversial highlighting the need for more thorough consultation impact assessment and risk analysis Further coordination of supervision of the EU financial institutions and markets is seen as necessary and financial services in the EU will benefit from strengthened macro and micro prudential supervision This should provide a more effective early warning system for mitigating systemic risks and help improve the operation of the single market in financial services The Committee supports the establishment of a new body at the EU level to assess and monitor macro prudential systemic risks arising from financial markets and institutions Major strengthening of the powers of any EU micro prudential body is though a matter of some controversy and thorough and careful debate of the alternatives for reform within existing limitations is necessary The Commission has applied state aid rules speedily and flexibly and has helped ensure that bail outs of failing banks and mitigation of damage to the real economy do not jeopardise the single market The Future of Financial Regulation Iain G MacNeil, Justin O'Brien, 2010-03-12 This edited collection based on a conference draws together a variety of different perspectives on the international financial crisis

European Financial Regulation Veerle Colaert,Danny Busch,Thomas Incalza,2019-12-26 Mirroring the long established structure of the financial industry EU financial regulation as we know it today approaches banking insurance and investment services separately and often divergently In recent decades however the clear separation between financial sectors has gradually evaporated as business lines have converged across sectors and FinTech solutions have emerged which do not fit traditional sector boundaries As the contours of the traditional tripartition in the financial industry have faded the diverging regulatory and supervisory treatment of these sectors has become increasingly at odds with economic reality This book brings together insights developed by distinguished researchers and industry professionals in a series of articles analysing the main areas of EU financial regulation from a cross sectoral perspective For each specific research theme including prudential regulation corporate governance and conduct of business rules the similarities as well as gaps overlaps and unjustifiable differences between banking securities and insurance regulation are clearly presented and discussed This innovative research approach is aimed at informing lawmakers and policymakers on potential improvements to EU financial regulation whilst also supporting legal and compliance professionals applying the current framework or looking to streamline compliance processes

Global Financial Regulation Howard Davies, David Green, 2013-05-08 As international financial markets have become more complex so has the regulatory system which oversees them The Basel Committee is just one of a plethora of international bodies and groupings which now set standards for financial activity around the world in the interests of protecting savers and investors and maintaining financial stability These groupings and their decisions have a major impact on markets in developed and developing countries and on competition between financial firms Yet their workings are shrouded in mystery and their legitimacy is uncertain Here for the first time two men who have worked within the system describe its origins and development in clear and accessible terms Howard Davies was the first Chairman of the UK's Financial Services Authority the single regulator for the whole of Britain's financial sector David Green was Head of International Policy at the FSA after spending thirty years in the Bank of England and has been closely associated with the development of the current European regulatory arrangements Now with a revised and updated introduction which catalogues the changes made since the credit crisis erupted this guide to the international system will be invaluable for regulators financial market practitioners and for students of the global financial system wherever they are located The book shows how the system has been challenged by new financial instruments and by new types of institutions such as hedge funds and private equity Furthermore the growth in importance of major developing countries who were excluded for far too long from the key decision making for a has led to a major overhaul The guide is essential reading for all those interested in the development of financial markets and the way they are regulated The revised version is only available in paperback
