Empty Breadbasket:

Empty Breadbasket? Cornucopia Project, 1981 The Breadbasket is Empty Peter Oesterdiekhoff, Karl Wohlmuth, 1980 Empty Breadbasket? , 1981 Multidimensional Scaling Forrest W. Young, 2013-05-13 This outstanding presentation of the fundamentals of multidimensional scaling illustrates the applicability of MDS to a wide variety of disciplines The first two sections provide ground work in the history and theory of MDS The final section applies MDS techniques to such diverse fields as physics marketing and political science A Green and Permanent Land Randal S. Beeman, James A. Pritchard, 2001 Once patronized primarily by the counterculture and the health food establishment the organic food industry today is a multi billion dollar business driven by ever growing consumer demand for safe food and greater public awareness of ecological issues Assumed by many to be a recent phenomenon that industry owes much to agricultural innovations that go back to the Dust Bowl era This book explores the roots and branches of alternative agricultural ideas in twentieth century America showing how ecological thought has challenged and changed agricultural theory practice and policy from the 1930s to the present It introduces us to the people and institutions who forged alternatives to industrialized agriculture through a deep concern for the enduring fertility of the soil a passionate commitment to human health and a strong advocacy of economic justice for farmers Randal Beeman and James Pritchard show that agricultural issues were central to the rise of the environmental movement in the United States As family farms failed during the Depression a new kind of agriculture was championed based on the holistic approach taught by the emerging science of ecology Ecology influenced the permanent agriculture movement that advocated such radical concepts as long term land use planning comprehensive soil conservation and organic farming Then in the 1970s sustainable agriculture combined many of these ideas with new concerns about misguided technology and an over consumptive culture to preach a more sensible approach to farming In chronicling the overlooked history of alternative agriculture A Green and Permanent Land records the significant contributions of individuals like Rex Tugwell Hugh Bennett Louis Bromfield Edward Faulkner Russell and Kate Lord Scott and Helen Nearing Robert Rodale Wes Jackson and groups like Friends of the Land and the Practical Farmers of Iowa And by demonstrating how agriculture also remains central to the public interest especially in the face of climatic crises genetically altered crops and questionable uses of pesticides this book puts these issues in historical perspective and offers readers considerable food for thought The Empty Bread Basket Rami Zurayk, 2011-11-01 The Fertile Crescent the region encompassing Iraq Syria Lebanon Jordan and Palestine has despite its name historically faced challenges to food security from Imperial powers and more recently foreign agribusiness The Empty Bread Basket unravels the paradoxes of food and empire in the Fertile Crescent using a comparative and historical political economy of agrarian change The structures that condition rural development in the region are traced historically as the result of capitalist development and colonially mediated state building that began during the 19th century Ottoman Tanzimat reform and accelerated with the imposition of Western colonialism after World War I The contemporary food dependence of the Fertile Crescent is explained as the cumulative outcome of these historical processes and the agendas of Western governments and international development agencies As commodity prices soar across the world food security is set to become a key issue for students studying Middle Eastern politics and development studies
