Ghana Must Go:

Ghana Must Go Taiye Selasi, 2013-03-05 A buoyant and rapturous debut novel The Wall Street Journal about the transformative power of unconditional love Electric exhilarating and beautifully crafted Ghana Must Go introduces the world to Taiye Selasi a novelist of extraordinary talent In a sweeping narrative that takes readers from Accra to Lagos to London to New York it is at once a portrait of a modern family and an exploration of the importance of where we come from to who we are A renowned surgeon and failed husband Kweku Sai dies suddenly at dawn outside his home in suburban Accra The news of his death sends a ripple around the world bringing together the family he abandoned years before Moving with great elegance through time and place Ghana Must Go charts their circuitous journey to one another and along the way teaches us that the truths we speak can heal the wounds we hide Ghana Must Go Onyameneba France, 2004-02 This book is about things that people wonder about It is about things that happen in our everyday life that are natural things that cannot be changed The incompleteness that we feel inside and the strong desire to be fulfilled Our powerful inner strengths dealing with who you are and trying to get others to accept whom you are Topics also include understanding what we feel and how we feel and expressing our emotions the southern ways of life and the frustrations of envy and jealousy from others when trying to succeed Experience the ups and downs when life throws you a curve ball and learn from every situation in life so that when the same situation occurs again you know how to deal with it Transit Lit Cameron Leader-Picone, 2025-12-15 Explores new forms of cosmopolitan identity constructed in contemporary diasporic fictions The expanding number of migrants to the United States from continental Africa since the 1960s has led to a flourishing twenty first century literary corpus by immigrants and the children of immigrants Transit Lit Fictions of Migration in Twenty First Century African Immigrant Literature analyzes key works by African immigrant authors such as Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie Teju Cole and Yaa Gyasi to argue that such texts reveal the tensions between the authors own cosmopolitan ideals and a necessary critique of how such ideals become co opted and commodified within contemporary geopolitics Cameron Leader Picone offers a new conceptual framework for reading contemporary diasporic texts that do not fit easily into national or continental traditions or previous literary models Instead he argues for the need to embrace the overlapping instabilities of meaning identity and citizenship that characterize twenty first century diasporic movement in an interconnected world These texts and the constructions of identity that they trace map the terrain of contemporary migration Language and the Construction of Multiple Identities in the Nigerian Novel Romanus Aboh, 2018-12-28 Language and the construction of multiple identities in the Nigerian novel examines the multifaceted relation between people and the various identities they construct for themselves and for others through the context specific ways they use language Specifically this book pays attention to how forms of identities ethnic cultural national and gender are constructed through the use of language in select novels of Adichie Atta and Betiang Employing an interdisciplinary approach this book draws analytical insights from critical discourse analysis literary discourse analysis and socio ethno linguistic analysis This approach enables the author to engage with the novels to illuminate the link between the ways Nigerians use language and the identities they construct Being a context driven analysis this book critically scrutinises literary language beyond stylistic borders by interrogating the micro and macro levels of language use a core analytical paradigm frequently used by discourse analysts who engage in critical discourse analysis

Migration and Return in Modern African Literature

Ernest Cole, 2025 Using close readings of nine novels by African or African descended novelists this book examines three phases of African migration departure disillusionment and the impulse to return The experiences of African migrants in the diaspora are deeply inflected by the condition of living as Black bodies in white spaces In this work author Ernest Cole examines closely the narratives of migration and return presented in nine powerful novels by authors who include Chimamanda Adichie NoViolet Bulawayo Teju Cole and others The novels reveal a reversal of expectations that migrants from Africa experience upon arrival in the West a reversal prompted in part by the racial prejudice they are confronted with as Black individuals As the author notes the novels also illustrate the desire to return to the homeland as a better alternative to the precarious life in the West even though such a move is not without its complications The study is divided into three parts with seven chapters The first two chapters deal with the reasons for the departure of migrants from the continent the next two depict the experiences of migrants in the West and the last three focus on contemplations of the return journey home Collectively the chapters lay out three phases in the migration process departure from home disillusionment in the West and return to the country of origin Within this framework the book uses displacement and dislocation to examine a host of themes social alienation alterity and the precarity of Africans in the diaspora
