Scientific Inquiry Cycle: Review

Science helps communities solve problems by applying knowledge and inventing things. Often "solved" with a local "hack" such as water recycling or waste management using natural or man-made materials. However, solutions can have a negative impact. Understanding the problem fully, including its causes and effects, is the first step in finding an effective resolution.

Designing solutions requires considering various constraints, such as budget, time, and safety concerns. Sometimes, important parts of a solution might be overlooked, especially, as it is important to weigh the trade-offs carefully. For example, creating materials for a house that may affect its cost and ease of use, cannot influence the effectiveness of the solution.

After identifying a solution, documenting how it works, what constraints affected it, and any compromises that have already been or should be made on the idea. Communication, using simple words, and following up on the results of the solution are important steps. This process can help identify future needs, locally encourage responsible decision-making, and build community trust.

6A. Mark the best answer for each question.

1. What is the first important step when working on how to solve a local problem?
- Thinking of a solution immediately
 - Using the most expensive materials
 - Ignoring safety concerns
 - Understanding the problem fully
2. What does documenting constraints in a solution help with?
- Ignoring the problems of the solution
 - Establishing a budget for the solution and safety
 - Showing how to avoid constraints
 - Demonstrating that the solution has no issues
3. Which is an example of a trade-off?
- Finding a solution with no constraints
 - Using expensive materials
 - Using cheap materials
 - Using simple materials
4. Why is it important to document constraints?
- To avoid not being in compliance
 - To make ideas clearer
 - To finish the problem by following the constraints
 - To avoid overlooking constraints

6B. Mark if the statement is True (T) or False (F).

1. A solution made after one failed attempt is usually better than one that is made after several failed attempts.

Answer for each question.

1. How does identifying a solution help in the scientific process?

2. Why must this be considered in designing a solution?

3. What might happen when creating a new idea?

4. How might science solutions be implemented?

5. Why are trade-offs essential in scientific understanding?
